RECONSTRUCTION.—In a late speech in the Senate, Mr. Howe, of Wisconsin, made the following forcible argument in support of the proposition that Congress must declare when the suspended functions of the revolted States shall be restored:

It is the province of the President to execute the national will, not to expound it. He is placed in command of the Army and Navy, to enable him to "take care that the laws be faithfully executed," not that they be wisely made. With all the power in his hands he cannot rightfully so much as transfer an old musket from one citizen to another without the warrant of the United States, tested by a Judge, declaring the right of the claimant to have it. The President cannot fix the price to be paid for an acre of the public domain, nor the duty to be paid upon the importation of a pound of tea. Is it supposable that the people who withhold from the Executive the right to legislate upon such trifling concerns would authorize him to fix the terms upon which eight million people, who had forfeited their lives by law, should be organized into eleven States of the Union? I am not only confident that this is the last power which the people would confer upon the Executive Department, but I am [illegible] it is the last power which the present Executive would consent to exert; and that not solely or mainly because of the unsuitableness of his office for ascertaining the national will upon the question, but chiefly because of his personal relation to and his possible interest in the question to be determined. * * * * * * * *

To the legislative department there is delegated the responsibility of determining when these suspended functions shall be restored. To Congress it ought to be delegated, because its members, coming more directly from the people, and from many different localities, are supposed to be better informed as to what is the popular will than any individual can be. To Congress it ought to be delegated, because its members have no personal interest in the decision of the question. The people of the revolting districts will have no more and no less influence upon the re-election of the members of these Houses whether the functions of States are restored to them or not. To Congress this power is delegated by the express terms of the Constitution. "New States may be admitted by the Congress into this Union," is the language of the third section of the fourth Article of the Constitution. To Congress also the Supreme Court assigns this power by necessary implication, if not by express adjudication, in the celebrated case of Luther vs. Borden, reported in the 7th Howard Supreme Court reports, page 1. Then two distinct rival organizations claimed to be the Government of Rhode Island. The question presented to the Court was which of the two was the legitimate government. The Court decided that the question was political and not judicial, and in the opinion of Chief Justice Taney I find the following conclusive words:

"The fourth section of the article of the Constitution of the United States provides that the United States shall guarantee to every State in the Union a republican form of government, and shall protect each of them against invasion, and on the application of the Legislature, or of the Executive when the Legislature cannot be convened, against domestic violence. Under this Article of the Constitution it rests with Congress to decide what Government is the established one in a State. For, as the United States guarantees to each State a republican Government, Congress must necessarily decide what Government is established in the State before it can determine whether it is republican or not. And when the Senators and Representatives of a State are admitted into the councils of the Union, the authority of the Government under which they are appointed, as well as its republican character, is recognized by the proper constitutional authority. And its decision is binding upon every other department of the Government, and could not be questioned in a judicial tribunal. It is true that the contest in this case did not last long enough to bring the matter to this issue; and as no Senators or Representatives were elected under the authority of the Government of which Dorr was the head, Congress was not called upon to decide the controversy. Yet the right to decide is placed there and not in the Courts."

If Congress, then, may rightfully determine which of two rival organizations is the legitimate Government of an acknowledged State, a fortiori must Congress decide when a particular organization is or is not the Government of a State.

ATTEMPTS TO EXCITE INSURRECTION.—The conduct of the "returning veterans" of the late "Confederate army" who have complacently settled themselves in and around the District of Columbia is made the subject of a very appropriate editorial denunciation by the Evening Star of Wednesday. After having indulged themselves in the luxury of voting against negro suffrage in Washington, as the very best way of indicating their contempt for the Government they vainly sought to destroy, they now turn upon the poor colored people, and in sight of the Presidential Mansion enact atrocities that would shame the most brutal slave-masters of other days. We do not refer to this occurrence to add to the just strictures of the Star. It is a too common, too frequent, and too familiar fact, to render it necessary to be made more odious by any remarks of ours. We select it simply to show that there is a set and deliberate purpose on the part of wicked men to excite the colored men to deeds of violence, and, if possible, to general insurrection. We have only to glance over a certain class of newspapers to realize this truth. However monstrous it may appear, it is clear that this satanic purpose is not only labored for, but its fulfillment is earnestly desired. We will not insult the decent colored man by comparing him to the wretched ingrates who, being permitted to return and enjoy the protection of the Government, try to goad him into turbulence and slaughter, and when they succeed, to cite his retaliatory resentment as an evidence of his natural ferocity. Considering how much he has borne, and how much he will still be forced to bear, his moderation and his prudence may well challenge the respect of all good men. He is as far superior to these boasted scions of "chivalry" as they have shown themselves to be inferior to any other race claiming to be civilized. What better picture of the two classes, the liberated blacks and the desperate adventurers who crowded the Southern armies, could be desired than that furnished by this very contrast? We predict that as time rolls on the difference will grow even more palpable, and that the order, decency and intelligence of the freedmen will become so striking that their very oppressors and persecutors will find it a profitable task to seek their own selfish safety in imitating their former slaves. It is among the last and most monstrous of the efforts of the enemies of the Government that, failing in all other things, they should aspire to cover themselves with a new infamy by laboring to excite an insurrection among the colored men of the South. While they will utterly fail in this, they will unquestionably succeed in giving a new proof of their own unworthiness. The colored men of the United States need no words of ours. They are doubly warned. They have seen the unparalleled calamity and disgrace that have crushed the white aristocracy of the South when they attempted to take issue with the National Government; and it would be an unnatural spectacle, with this example before them, if the black men attempted the same crime. No portion of the human race ever had set before them so glorious an opportunity to contradict the calumnies of their enemies, and to ratify the predictions of their friends, than the freedmen of America.—Washington Chronicle.

WELLS, THE MURDERER.—By mail, this morning, Chief of Police Burke, of this city, received from Chief Burke, of San Francisco, a letter in which was enclosed a photograph of the man recently arrested in Idaho on the suspicion that he was Wells, who murdered the old man, Martin Wetzel, and afterwards shot and killed his guard, Whorton, Armstrong and Stoddard. It is stated in the letter that the person represented in the photograph is on his way to this State, and will arrive on the next steamer from Oregon—Sheriff Tysone of Idaho City, having charge of the prisoner. All the officers of this city who knew Wells, agree that the likeness is that of the notorious murderer who has so long avoided the clutches of the law. He has changed but little in appearance—the lapse of six years and the upbraidings of a guilty conscience for that length of time seeming to have had but little effect on his outer man. It is a real matter for congratulation that this deep-dyed assassin is secured and in a fair way of receiving his deserts. The arrest of Wells was brought about in this way: He had a traveling friend and companion known as James Coe alias "Limber Jim." The robbery of old man Wetzel was made up between them, and the affair was to have come off on a certain night, without blood if possible, with it if necessary. It is the opinion of the police that Wells lacked entire faith in Jim, so he alone on the night before that agreed upon, robbed Wetzel. Wells thought that he could complete the robbery without arousing the old man, but being mistaken found it necessary to kill him with a knife. On the morning after the murder Wells escaped to Washoe, and his partner, Limber Jim, was arrested on suspicion of having been concerned in the murder. Before Wells was arrested in Washoe, Coe had been discharged. In course of time, Wells and Coe met in Idaho and recognized each other. Coe knows that he has Wells in his power, and also that Wells will kill him on the first opportunity, for before the robbery and murder Jim had lent Wells a pistol as well as made arrangements for the perpetration of the crime. Coe informed the authorities that the man living in Idaho and known as McDonald was the Sacramento murderer, Wells alias "Turkey." The necessary steps were taken and Wells was arrested on a requisition from the Governor of California, and when he was arraigned before the examining magistrate he conducted his own case with great ability, denying all knowledge of the murders as well as his own identity. It will be recollected that when Wells shot his guard he almost instantly killed Stoddard and Armstrong, and mortally wounded Deputy Sheriff Wharton of Sutter county. Wharton, after being shot, had the power to fire at Wells, and was successful in wounding him in the leg. The limb still shows the scar.—Sac. Bee.

THE UNION PRESS AND THE PRESIDENT.—Among the Union journals the Nevada Transcript has a word to say upon the decided difference of opinion between Congress and the President. We extract the following:

The great mass of loyal people, convinced of the ruinous results which must inevitably follow, if the President persists in his present course, sympathize with Congress, and claim that the President, being merely the Executive power of the nation, should acquiesce and assist in carrying out the known will of the people, expressed by their representatives in Congress. The time-servers, Copperheads and rebels, entertaining no love for Johnson, are rallying to his support and urging him to stand firm in his present position, in the hope of making him a leader who shall again call to life the defunct Democracy. Whether Johnson will suffer himself to be sacrificed [illegible] be seen. If he continues his opposition to Congress and shows more friendship for traitors in the South and their sympathizers in the North than for the Union, the Constitution or the laws passed by Congress, there remains but one course for Union men to pursue. They must rally to the support of the national Legislature and do battle for the purpose of perpetuating the great principles and benefits which the victories of our brave soldiers over rebellion have placed within our grasp.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE STATE

SATURDAY MORNING MARCH 10 1866

Oregon, California and Montana

We are glad to observe that our California friends, both in San Francisco and the interior, are awake to the importance of the scheme to possess and retain control of the Montana trade. Many of the California journals have taken pains to recommend the enterprise to the favorable attention of the business public. Oregon, a State which is really far more interested in the success of the scheme than California can be, should not be behind in the effort to obtain a market for her products. Not only does this project of opening a route for trade to the mines of Montana—now known to be the richest in America—commend itself to our merchants, but to every class of our population. We must have a market for our agricultural products, and as those places which we have hitherto supplied are steadily becoming more able to supply themselves, we must look to new fields and open new channels for maintaining and developing our trade. We must find a way of communication with those who can give us a market, nor should we wait until others, by their superior spirit and industry, have obtained the prize which we can and should make our own. It is not too much to predict that the gold yield of Montana the present year will be fully equal to that of California during any year of her golden history. Here will be the best and most extensive market within reach of the East or West. Chicago and St. Louis are working with characteristic energy to supply this market both with provisions and manufactured goods. For opening a channel of communication to these mines we have decided natural advantages which others do not possess. A comparatively small expenditure of money will suffice to open the road for the short distance of land travel on the proposed route between Portland and Helena, and we trust that a scheme which if prosecuted with ordinary energy will have a magnificent realization, will not be delayed or suffered to fail.

To show with what favor this enterprise is regarded in the interior of California, we subjoin the following from the Stockton Independent of February 24th:

We have often blamed San Francisco [illegible] and [illegible] of the interior; we now thank her merchants for what they are about to do, in co-operation with the merchants of Portland, in our behalf. We refer to the telegram in [illegible] paper, in which a scheme is outlined to reach Helena, Montana, in ten days by the speediest [illegible] travel, and in thirty days for freight. The plan [illegible] plates the navigation of the upper Columbia river by steamers, connecting by short portages with other [illegible] on the Pend d'Oreille lake; thence, by a wagon road a very good [illegible] miles, to the very heart of the Montana [illegible]. It is to be hoped that there will be no [illegible] delays in the consummation of this project. Two cities [illegible] San Francisco and Portland, each alike interested, ought to be able and willing to furnish, if need be, a million of dollars in a fortnight, for the improvement of the route and the construction of new light [illegible].

This is the greatest stroke yet made for California and O[illegible]. If it is not allowed to linger and drivel in the [illegible] it will certainly give us almost a monopoly of the trade of the vast mineral region from southern Idaho to the [illegible] north, including all the gold region of Montana; a country that in two years must produce at the rate of $40,000,000 per year, and contain a population of several hundred thousand. With this new route fully opened, San Francisco will be, for travelers, at least ten days, and for trade, fifteen or twenty days nearer than St. Louis to those mines, and flour, which St. Louis could not afford at a cheaper average rate than $20 per hundred, we can supply at $18.75 and retain the [illegible] price of wheat in this State. Another advantage is that our trade will be carried on for not less than nine [illegible] in the year, whilst the Missouri river, frozen from Nov. [illegible] to April, and too low for navigation anywhere above the mouth of the Yellowstone, from August to No[illegible], leaves but three months in which to conduct the St. Louis and Chicago trade. Scarcely anything can be [illegible] more [illegible] than this triumph of San Francisco and Portland over St. Louis and Chicago. It opens up a new world to the two great Pacific States, and in a year or two more the tides of wealth and travel which now seek the East by way of the Missouri, will certainly turn toward the West, by way of the Columbia. Our agricultural lands, so long neglected, will become of incalculable value, and the valleys of the San Joaquin, Sacramento, Willamette and Umpqua, will teem with [illegible] as wealthy and [illegible] as those of the [illegible] and Genesee. So the reader will bear in mind that the [illegible] the [illegible] the upper, or Clarke's fork of the Columbia, [illegible] leads directly through the centre of the great gold [illegible] embracing [illegible] all of [illegible] Columbia had a [illegible] of the [illegible] of the United States. It [illegible] times the [illegible] of the gold [illegible] of California, and one half the districts as far tested as rich as one [illegible] were in 1849 and 1851. [illegible] California never did have as rich [illegible] as are reported at Helena and Virginia, in Montana, and in the [illegible] of Washington Territory and [illegible] part of British Columbia. For all this vast region, the north fork of the Columbia, and not the [illegible], must be the cheapest and quickest route for trade and travel, at least till Chicago and St. Louis unite [illegible] with the Rocky mountains by [illegible].

In view of these facts, if the merchants of San Francisco and Portland do not feel able to furnish the whole [illegible] of ready capital [illegible] to put the new route in complete [illegible] it is the plain duty of the States of [illegible] to take a helping hand. This State can well afford to [illegible] towards the [illegible] be [illegible] by it as [illegible]. The [illegible] of the Sacramento and San Joaquin [illegible], so far as the cost of transportation are concerned, [illegible] with those of the Willamette, and have an advantage over those of the Umpqua [illegible]. We know of no measure of more importance [illegible] the simple [illegible]. Is it worth the expenditure of a million or two of [illegible] the vast market which [illegible] thousand to a million prosperous miners [illegible] and manufacturers?

A SEARCH REWARDED.—We have heard a vast deal of late about the "eternal principles" of Democracy. Whether the principles are eternal or not, the Copperheads are eternally talking about them. We have been somewhat curious to learn precisely what some of these very venerable and [illegible] principles are. Our search has been rewarded, in respect of one or two points which the New York Day Book kindly elucidates for us.

Eleven States lie prostrate and powerless, with a standing army in their midst, to prevent industry and order, and try the fanatic experiment of setting aside the work of the Creator and degrading white men and negroes to a common level. * * * Two-thirds of the property accumulated by eighty years' prosperity has been wasted in a war of four years to reform the work of God and force four million of negroes from their normal condition of [illegible] subordination.

"Eternal principle" No 1, then, is the Divinity of human slavery, and one part of the mission of Democracy is to restore the negro to his "normal condition of subordination." In view of the last few [illegible], there is a pretty strong presumption that the American people don't see it in that "Divine" light, and that they will probably not be disposed to contribute very liberally in behalf of that Democratic missionary enterprise. It has cost them rather too much to abolish the hell-born institution.

"Eternal principle," No 2, is made clear by the following quotation:

Why, if the Northern masses could get one glimpse of the wrong done them, they would rise up as one man, march on Washington, and crucify every Abolitionist in Congress.

The next quotation serves to show the peculiarly patriotic nature of "Eternal principle," No 3:

At this moment, if that Congress were to say to the South, "Do what you please, set up your Confederacy again if you wish, only take care of your negroes, and set them to work again so that we can have cotton, and preserve our commerce and manufactures," it would be an inestimable blessing to the northern people.

Here are three of the "eternal principles" of the Democracy, which they propose to put in practical operation as soon as they can get possession of the Government:

1st. The Divinity of Human Slavery,

2d. The crucifixion of the Abolitionists, and

3d. The Restoration of the Southern Confederacy.

We commend them to the thoughtful consideration of the people. They are essentially the principles of the Democracy of Oregon, as much as they are of the Day Book, and should that party by the help of [illegible], obtain the ascendancy in this State, they are the "Eternal principles" upon which it would act.

The last act of President Lincoln's life was to annul Weitzel's proclamation inviting disloyalists to participate in reorganizing Virginia. The tendency of all of President Johnson's official acts has been to confer on rebel population rights and powers which he once said should be withheld from them.

Congressional Proposition to Guarantee Mexican Loan.

WASHINGTON, March 5.—In the House, under a call upon States for bills, etc., Woodbridge, of Vermont, offered a resolution as follows:

Whereas, The Republic of Mexico has proposed to borrow fifty millions for thirty years, at seven per cent. interest, payable semi-annually, and whereas the United States is not indifferent to the welfare of that Republic, therefore,

Resolved, That the United States guarantee the payment of principal and interest.

Woodbridge asked that the resolution be read twice and referred to the Committee on Foreign Affairs. Blaine objected, and there being a tie vote, the speaker voted in the affirmative; so the resolution was received, read and referred. Stevens, of Pennsylvania, offered resolutions, which were adopted, calling on the President for information on the following points: Ask how many persons worth $20,000 he has granted special pardons, with their names; how much of the enemy's property was seized and how much restored, and whether the amount ever served the rebel cause; how much abandoned property allotted to freedmen has been restored, stating particulars.

Price of Iowa, chairman of the Pacific Railroad committee, introduced a bill for the organization of a company to construct a railroad and telegraph from Puget Sound to the Columbia river; read twice and referred. The House then went into committee of the whole on the appropriation bill.

In the Senate, after the morning hour, the proceedings were important. The consideration of the constitutional amendment fixing the basis of representation was resumed, and Pomeroy, of Kansas, made a long speech in favor of universal suffrage.

Several speeches are yet to be made before the vote can be reached on the amendment, and a careful estimate shows that more than one-third of the Senators will vote against it, including Sumner, Stewart, Morrill, Davis and Cowan, thus defeating it. Gen. Joe Johnston is here testifying before the Reconstruction Committee.

WASHINGTON, March 5th.—In the House, Bingham, of Ohio, from the Reconstruction Committee, reported the following Joint Resolution:

Whereas, The people of Tennessee have made known to Congress their desire that the Constitutional relations heretofore existing between them and the United States shall be fully re-established, and did, on the 22d of Feb. 1865, by a large and popular vote adopt and ratify a constitution republican in form and not inconsistent with the Constitution of the United States, and the State Government has been organized under the provisions thereof, and

Whereas, The people of Tennessee are found to be in condition to exercise the functions of a State in the Union and exercise the same by consent of the law making power of the United States. Therefore,

Resolved, That the State of Tennessee is hereby declared to be one of the United States, on an equal footing with other States, upon express conditions that the people of Tennessee will maintain and enforce in good faith the present constitution and laws, excluding those who have been engaged in rebellion against the United States, from the elective franchise for the respective periods of time therein provided, and shall exclude the same persons for like periods from eligibility to office, and that the State shall never assume or pay any debt incurred in aid of the late rebellion, nor ever in any manner claim from the United States, or take allowance or compensation for the slaves emancipated, which conditions shall be ratified by statutes.

The joint resolution was read a first and second time, and on motion of Bingham recommitted and ordered printed. Bingham also presented the memorial and the testimony relating to Tennessee with accompanying documents.

Rogers, of New Jersey, offered a minority report for himself and Grider of Kentucky, which takes the ground that Tennessee is already in the Union and had never been out, and this with a resolution that the members elect be sworn in. Ordered printed.

Washburn, of Illinois, says that Trumbull of Illinois, and himself dissented from the majority report and will file their reasons hereafter. The grounds for their dissent are that the joint resolution does not afford sufficient guarantees for fidelity or protect the freedmen.

Conklin, of New York, moved that any members of the committee may file their views hereafter, and that they be printed. There being no objection it was so awarded.

A BASE DEVICE.—The Statesman has published the names of several prominent Union men in the State who, as it says, fully sustain the President and condemn the action of Congress. We know at the time that their names were used without their knowledge or consent. Several of them have assured their friends that they are with Congress and not with the President. We have seen letters from some of them addressed to gentlemen in this city, complaining of the injustice the Statesman has done them. A small office, State or Federal, will not buy these men as it will some who dwell in the atmosphere of the Statesman establishment.

THE APACHE WAR.—A letter from the Pima villages written on the 31st of January contains the intelligence that Col. Wright recently had a fight with the Apache Indians in which twenty bucks were killed and several squaws and children were captured. Col. Wright sustained no loss. Most of the Indians escaped, through the inability of the soldiers to pursue. They were destitute of shoes, but have since been supplied, and Col. Wright will soon start on an expedition toward the Canada river.

SUMMER ARRANGEMENTS.—The Oregon Steam Navigation [illegible] advertise this morning their summer arrangements for travel and transportation on the Columbia. Two daily lines to the Dalles, employing seven splendid [illegible], and seven others in the trade between Celilo and [illegible], Wallula, White Bluffs, Palouse and Lewiston, forms a striking contrast on times—not so remote but that most of us can well recollect them. "Phoenix," in a letter lately published in the Alta, mentions that in 1851, in his [illegible] travels in this section, but one team, Walla Walla, was seen during the summer, after leaving the Dalles and traveling several hundred [illegible] with no places along the road where a person could put up at. Now, one can travel by steamboats and stage [illegible] a good comfortable place every few miles the entire country through. The Colonel Wright, now superannuated, with Captain Len. White at the wheel, was the first to start up the [illegible] from the "Des Chutes," also supplanted, with about one hundred adventurers for the Oro Fino mines. Then there was no wood to be had along the river, [illegible] as bargained for from Indians on the banks, who had been fortunate in catching drift. Not a [illegible] the way that was but the [illegible] claimed as [illegible] the Wright. An elegant fleet has succeeded the [illegible]. The banks are lined with thrifty [illegible] towns have grown into existence, and Capt. White [illegible] to pioneer—this year—the hardy [illegible] who may wish to seek a prospect in British Columbia [illegible] Snake river, Pend d'Oreille lake and Clark's [illegible] will also be navigated during 1866, and the past five [illegible] witness such a tide of prosperity that we can [illegible] the growth of the future.

[illegible]—It [illegible] that, on the 6th, the [illegible] to California as Wells, the murderer, had not been [illegible]. We quote from the Call of above date: [illegible] gives a straight account of himself, and [illegible] but his strong resemblance [illegible] of so many murders has caused a [illegible] to go off half-cocked, and declare that he [illegible] Fury Wells, beyond peradventure. The [illegible] of this city, we understand, intend [illegible] in hand, and lend the accused such [illegible] prove his identification. They [illegible] furnish him with counsel unless they [illegible] that he is an innocent [illegible] reason to believe that he is what [illegible] to be, they will spare no [illegible] that fact apparent to the world. When [illegible] in this city, a few days since, he told us [illegible] at the What Cheer House in December [illegible] had drawn a deposit from the clerk. On [illegible] that his [illegible] was correct, and [illegible]. That signature may become [illegible] of evidence tending to establish his [illegible] write his name, and let experts compare [illegible] together, and it may serve to [illegible] the mystery which now appears to be [illegible] inextricable almost. The case is a hard [illegible] be [illegible] of as soon as possible. It is [illegible] which novelists love to narrate and [illegible] at the proper time clear up the mystery; but [illegible] in real life, the unfortunate man who [illegible] the terrible [illegible] of [illegible] they try to make him. Those who now [illegible] is Wells, will cling to that opinion [illegible] in convincing the Court that [illegible]

[illegible] "H." calls our attention [illegible] Section 23, of the city charter, where it [illegible] that the Council have power to "provide [illegible] of the city," etc. Still in [illegible] that they have power to "prevent [illegible] nuisances, long existing, have [illegible] under the powers granted by the [illegible] on Stark street that has [illegible] the entire winter, and it has proved a [illegible] and even the Common Council and [illegible] of whom [illegible] to have the power [illegible]." There are very many things [illegible] to do. They can suppress [illegible] restrain drinking shops, make regulations [illegible] the introduction of contagious [illegible] vagrants and paupers, remove obstructions [illegible] and side-walks, tax [illegible] the storage of gunpowder, punish [illegible] but the power can only be [illegible]. In order "to fill up or in some way [illegible] on portions of A [illegible] by "H." and others, the Council [illegible] Section 16 of the [illegible] to "improve" streets, [illegible] improved and paid for, as provided [illegible], it fails to [illegible] keep it in repair. To abate the nuisance [illegible] we are inclined to believe the improvement [illegible]

[illegible] Mrs. [illegible] Morgan Phelps [illegible] complimentary benefit this evening at [illegible]. This lady has been delighting our [illegible] the past two months, during the present [illegible] was always a favorite with the theatre-[illegible] not only in this city, but in other cities, [illegible]. The complimentary benefit [illegible] by our citizens is well bestowed, and we [illegible] full house. The piece selected gives [illegible] ability to display the great [illegible] comedy, in three [illegible] a Shrew," with Mrs. Phelps in the [illegible], is alone worth the [illegible]. [illegible] a variety of singing and [illegible]. Mrs. Phelps will appear in "Jack [illegible] made [illegible] table to the public when [illegible] as Mrs. Phelps, praised of all [illegible] and [illegible] only to point a moral, [illegible] and early.

[illegible] FESTIVAL.—We are [illegible] to state [illegible] of Vancouver have [illegible] festival at [illegible] Hall on Wednesday [illegible] the 14th inst. Ample preparation, arrangements [illegible] will be made for all who may attend. [illegible] will be [illegible]; the [illegible] will be in attendance, and such other [illegible] will be had as may be appropriate for the [illegible]. The proceeds will be devoted to [illegible] for the hall. We [illegible] it is the intention of the Good Templars to purchase a lot and build a hall as soon as [illegible] will [illegible]. They are doing a good work here, and we [illegible] their [illegible] the part of our citizens and all who may be able to [illegible] suggest in-[illegible] H.

[illegible]—The steamship Sierra [illegible] left San Francisco on March 6th, at [illegible] arrived at this port [illegible] sixty-nine hours time. The [illegible] the Sierra Nevada: Capt. [illegible], who has been absent [illegible] three weeks, during which time he [illegible] a great part of the Willamette valley, and [illegible] of the Umpqua, gives an idea of travel in Oregon [illegible] anything we ever heard of in Iowa. [illegible] the time in carts, and [illegible] ordinary wagons and four horses in some places. [illegible] that can be done, is to make two miles an [illegible]. There is no part of the world that needs a good [illegible] than this valley. A [illegible] would be a grand [illegible]

[illegible]—We acknowledge the [illegible] of a box [illegible] cured Smelt, put up by Messrs. J. P. Banner & Co. of Rainier. These gentlemen have made quite a [illegible] curing these delicate fish, and if the sample [illegible] a fair [illegible] of their work, they certainly [illegible] capitally. The fish are [illegible] in a [illegible] superior to the best smoked Herring we have ever seen in American market, and, having a fresh, [illegible], must be an [illegible] dish to the greatest [illegible]

[illegible]—A COURT—DEADY JUDGE.—March 9th, [illegible]. United States vs. [illegible]—Indictment for perjury, [illegible] to income return. Jury empanneled [illegible] tried. Verdict of not guilty.....United States [illegible] Smith—Indictment for selling liquor without [illegible]. Plea of guilty, and on the recommendation of the District Attorney, fined $5 and costs. Trial Jury discharged. To-day the Court will be occupied in the trial of admiralty cases.

[illegible] OF DELEGATES.—Mr. A. B. Halleck, President of the board of delegates, has appointed the following [illegible] committees: On Judiciary—H. Boyd, J. S. White, E. W. Hodgkinson. Finance—W. McMillan, S. G. Mills, Jas. Blanchard. Rules—A. Rosenheim, E. W. Kottage, J. B. Harker. Certificates—Jos. Buchtel, Al. [illegible], Thomas J. Carter.

[illegible] COURT, E. D. SHATTUCK, J.—March 9th, 1866. The [illegible] of the Circuit Court yesterday was unimportant to the public. The case of E. J. Ladd vs. Marshall and al., as administrator, was submitted to the jury. Wagner will receive sentence to-day.

[illegible] NOTICE.—There will be divine service in the [illegible]gational Church, corner Jefferson and Second [illegible], to-morrow at 10½ o'clock A. M., and 7 P. M. [illegible] immediately after morning service. [illegible] Prayer Meeting Monday night; Prayer and [illegible] Wednesday evening.

[illegible]—Numerous parties have fitted out recently for gold mining in the vicinity of Fort Vancouver. [illegible] that both placer claims and quartz are being worked, the former yielding at present from $3 to $5 per day.

[illegible]—Soap is falling—and while this is so, parties desiring to [illegible] in fitting out a stock, should call at the works of [illegible] & Co., in this city before closing [illegible]. The [illegible] made soap, we are satisfied, is [illegible] a great deal imported from elsewhere.

FIRE.—A fire was suppressed by the invincible department of this city, yesterday morning, at the barrel factory of Messrs. Lane & Rogers, on Front near D street. It is one of the wonders that the entire block of buildings was not destroyed, but the damage was not extraordinary, and being covered by insurance, the losers applied to the agents, Messrs. Ladd & Tilton, receiving the money before 12 o'clock, noon. The fire originated from the furnace in the engine room. The firemen had a good run and did good service, notwithstanding the early hour—about 3½ o'clock A. M.

"BIG INJIN."—One of the chiefs of the Simcoe Indians living in Washington Territory, east of the Cascade mountains, is now in the city begging or grub, we are informed. There are conflicting stories regarding the matter, in circulation. Some assert that the Indians on the reservation have been nearly destitute all winter, their supplies not having been taken in from Rockland, while others assert that the chief now here is a dissolute wretch, straggling from the tribe, and living about the Dalles. He is a big Injin, at all events.

IN A MUDDLE.—The Legislature of W. T., at its recent session, enacted a law in regard to marriage. No one knows when the act goes into effect. The printer says "from and after its passage;" but the Register says that either the "enrolling clerk or the printer has made a mistake." In the meantime the swains and lasses of the Territory are entering into wedlock without regard to the statute. Yesterday another couple left by the Fannie Troup for that purpose. The general impression seems to be that the law does not go into effect until April 1st, 1866.

PRIMARY MEETINGS.—Some have an idea that the primary meetings are to be held in this county to-day. This is a mistake. The County Committee have recommended that the several precinct meetings be held at the places of voting in each precinct on Tuesday, the 20th day of March, at 1 o'clock P. M., and notice appears in this paper to that effect.

ANOTHER NEW BOAT.—Workmen are employed at Bruce's ship yard in this city in getting out material for another new boat, 115 feet in length, 22 feet beam, and 6 feet depth of hold.

State Items.

The Mountaineer mentions the arrival by the Idaho, Thursday evening, of seventy-five passengers, mostly for the mines, and fifty head of animals.

Mr. N. C. Mayhew, a Deputy Grand Master of the I. O. O. F., of Oregon, was buried at the Dalles on Thursday, with the usual rites of that order.

The steamers of yesterday from Oregon City, brought down very heavy shipments of freight. We noticed the Senator had on board cords and cords of flour sacks, bacon gunnies and apple boxes, apparently with something substantial in all of them. The Alert, too, had a heavy freight of wheat, oats, bacon and apples. Lively times for freight.

We learn that the next quarterly meeting of the M. E. Church, at Portland, will be held April 14th and 15th.

The freight of the Fannie Patton, on Friday, consisted of flour, bacon and apples, nearly all from the Santiam river and amounted to ninety tons. The Santiam country is looming up.

The wool product of Oregon is becoming one of the most important in the State, and the quality now ranks far above that of any other part of the coast. A California exchange admits the fact in the following paragraph:

In the New York wool market, on the 13th of last month, California wool brought 33 to 37½ cents, while Oregon brought 42½ to 43 cents.

OREGON MATTERS IN CONGRESS.—The following is from the Bulletin's Washington letter dated February 3d:

The Senate has adopted a resolution offered by Mr. Nesmith, instructing the Committee on Commerce to inquire into the expediency of making an appropriation for the improvement of the navigation of the Columbia and Willamette rivers, and report by bill or otherwise.

Senator Nesmith has introduced another bill to extend aid to the California and Oregon Railroad, which may be accepted instead of the House Bill. It omits Portland as the Oregon terminus, and substitutes "a point on the Columbia river," in accordance with a resolution of the Oregon Legislature which has been received here within a day or two. All the opposition to the road has come from Portland, resulting from a narrow jealousy of San Francisco, and this is the result. The Senate bill will probably also, if it has not already, be amended to exclude the provisions incorporating the Columbia River and Puget Sound Railroad Company, it being thought impolitic for Congress to encourage the increasing demands for creating local corporations. After an organization has been formed in Washington Territory to connect with the Oregon and California Railroad, it can be admitted to the same privileges as to land grants, etc., by a separate bill. The same objection to creating local corporations by Act of Congress will probably be fatal to the Pacific Coast Railroad bill, which makes the Company the creature of Congress, instead of putting it under the care of the State law for the organization and regulation of railroad companies. The Oregon Railroad Company presents itself as an active State organization which has already done work in surveying a route and securing favorable State legislation, and will form a direct link on the great continental road.

STARVATION OF PRISONERS.—The following resolution was introduced in the Senate on the 3d of February by Judge Williams, of this State:

Resolved, That upon the evidence before this nation of the starvation and butchery of its soldiers as prisoners of war in the hands of the late so-called Confederate Government and of other violations of the [illegible] usages of nations in that behalf with the presumed connivance of the executive head of that Government and the Commander-in-Chief of its armies in the field, it has become the duty of the President of the United States to order the trial of these pretended functionaries, and all other officers of that Government, civil or military, who are believed to have either authorized or been consenting thereto, before a military commission for a violation of the laws of war, and in case of the conviction of any of them, to execute the sentence of such tribunals by inflicting such punishment as may be adjudged by them appropriate to the offence."

The entire number of National Banks now in existence in the United States, is sixteen hundred and twenty-six.

NEGLECTED COUGHS AND COLDS.—Very few are aware of the importance of checking a Cough or "Common Cold" in its first stage. That which in the beginning would yield to a mild remedy, if neglected, soon preys upon the lungs. "Brown's Bronchial Troches," or COUGH LOZENGES, afford instant relief.

S. T.—1860.—X.

Persons of sedentary habits troubled with weakness, lassitude, palpitation of the heart, lack of appetite, distress after eating, torpid liver, constipation, &c., deserve to suffer if they will not try the celebrated

PLANTATION BITTERS,

Which are now recommended by the highest medical authorities, and warranted to produce an immediate beneficial effect. They are exceedingly agreeable, perfectly pure, and must supersede all other tonics where a healthy, gentle stimulant is required.

They purify, strengthen and invigorate.
They create a healthy appetite.
They are an antidote to change of water and diet.
They overcome effects of dissipation and late hours.
They strengthen the system and enliven the mind.
They prevent miasmatic and intermittent fevers.
They purify the breath and acidity of the stomach.
They cure Dyspepsia and Constipation.
They cure Diarrhea and Cholera Morbus.
They cure Liver Complaint and Nervous Headache.

They make the weak strong, the languid brilliant, and are exhausted nature's great restorer. They are composed of the celebrated Calisaya bark, wintergreen, sassafras, roots and herbs, all preserved in perfectly pure St. Croix rum. For particulars, see circulars and testimonials around each bottle.

Beware of impostors. Examine every bottle. See that it has our private U. S. Stamp unmutilated over the cork, with plantation scene, and our signature on a fine steel plate side label. See that our bottle is not refilled with spurious and deleterious stuff. Any person pretending to sell Plantation Bitters by the gallon or in bulk, is an impostor. Any person imitating this bottle, or selling any other material therein, whether called Plantation Bitters or not, is a criminal under the U. S. Law, and will be so prosecuted by us. We already have our eye on several parties re-filling our bottles, &c., who will succeed in getting themselves into close quarters. The demand for Drake's Plantation Bitters from ladies, clergymen, merchants, &c., is incredible. The simple trial of a bottle is the evidence we present of their worth and superiority. They are sold by all respectable druggists, grocers, physicians, hotels, saloons, steamboats and country stores.

Thomas Carlyle.

Henry James recently delivered a lecture in New York on Thomas Carlyle, in which he made some interesting and valuable statements concerning that eminent writer Mr. James thinks that Carlyle is as worthy of admiration now as he ever was. He is a genius, not a philosopher, and should be judged accordingly. He disappoints us as a man, mainly because he is deficient in the spiritual nature. He is unsympathetic and impenetrable. He distrusts and despises one who has faith or hope. He prefers despair, and can rise no higher than pity for such men as Browning, Mill, Helps, or John Sterling He sympathizes however, with individual cases of suffering, but only so far as they are picturesque and visible. He does not, perhaps, disbelieve in a God, but he considers the idea or any practical connection or influence between God and man as the saddest bosh. He has much of the narrowness of mind to be expected from a descendant of the Covenanters, and this governs the nature of his belief He bitterly opposes any reformer, he worships nothing but the idea of a strong will—moral force—and that, too, in some picturesque manifestations He believes in success, and believes that no one was ever unsuccessful unless he deserved to be. Personally, he is a kindly and genial friend and neighbor; but he has not a glimmer of insight into humanity and its future, or a gleam of sympathy with it Carlyle is a hardened disclaimer in conversation, and regards little except the effect he may produce His worship of success has been so long kept up that he has in fact forgotten the difference between right and wrong, and his arguments have become a shameless cant though quite unconsciously so I was not surprised, said Mr. James, after experiencing Carlyle's personal habits of mind, at his puerile gabble in Macmillan's Magazine, where he sought to solve the greatest problems by the mere power of human genius And yet, however he should satirize or attack your principles or beliefs, he would never be guilty of any unkindly or impolite onset upon your own personality, never insulting to yourself individually. He would not have been guilty, moreover, of his recent melancholy drivel, had it not been for the influence of such men as always hang on the skirts of men of genius for their own purpose. Some of Carlyle's writings have seemed to imply a belief in humanity and progress But this was a temporary state He sees nothing hopeful, no way of dealing with feeble races except by enslaving them, no way of treating the wicked except exterminating them. He is a genius; but genius is not necessarily either wise or good. It is far inferior to character, which implies a genuine, appreciation and reverence for whatever is true and good. Carlyle values truth and good, not for themselves, but as a painter does his pigmies; for the effects he can produce with them. A real desire for reform he hates. The reason why he hates Americans is, that we believe in reform, and believe him to be such a reformer as some of his writings indicate, and nothing mad-dens him so much as to be reckoned a reformer.

"Perhaps it would be nearly as correct to give, as the chief reason of Carlyle's incompetency for his time, his belief that the conflict of good and evil in the world is itself natural, and real and final, instead of being temporary, and the necessary step toward the ultimate and perfect victory of good. The picture of Carlyle's mental character was finished by a number of spirited and well told anecdotes. Once he was maintaining, in conversation with Tennyson and others, his peculiar hero-worshipping views, and wishing for a return in England of the days of Duke William, the Conqueror. "Perhaps," answered Tennyson, "you would like to have him again cut off the legs of 12,000 gentlemen, to prevent their bearing arms against him?" "Well," answered Carlyle, with evident glee at the citation of a point he relished, "Well, I think I have heard of his doing something of that kind. He thought he had a right to do it. And on the whole he had." Whereupon Mr. Tennyson observed, "He had better not come into my part of the country, then, or he will surely put my knife in his guts!" On another occasion Mr. James introduced a dweller by the shores of Lake Erie who desired to thank Carlyle for having done him good, and made a neat little speech to that effect. But the peremptory rejoiner was, "I don't believe a word of it. I don't believe I ever did anybody any good. I don't believe anybody ever did help anybody. Such an idea is the most utter and hopeless folly. I never did any good that I saw except to one man, and him I never saw; a sea captain that wrote me that he had been so much helped by me that he had named his ship the Thomas Carlyle." But on searching, it seems, Mr. Carlyle could not find his naval namesake. He contrasts with Emerson as a divine sunset with a divine sunrise, or, as the last gasp or death rattle of a departing divine life in man with the first budding of a new divine life. Carlyle believes that God is like himself, and gives way to the strong and hustles the weak out of sight. He believes the battle is to the strong, that the race is to the swift, that might makes right, and the devil take the hindermost His ideal man is a ruler of men; his ideal society only rule on one hand and obedience on the other, his millennium is nothing but a glorification of force. His weakness is, that he has no sympathy with universal justice, but only with some case of it; none with man, but with some man; none with the average of humanity, but only with exceptional instances of it.

AMERICAN ARISTOCRACY.—It is absurd for any man to style himself "independent." He may have unlimited pecuniary resources at his command, but what are these without the ministrations of other men? How essential to his welfare is the meanest drudge, and the very breath of those whom he despises. It is folly for a class of people to set themselves apart as exclusive as holding an inherent and divine patent of nobility —peculiarly ridiculous in American society, where it is inconsistent not only with the mutual dependence ordained by nature, but with our theory of man. We, in that theory, know no impassable barriers. We repudiate badges and uniforms We recognize the manhood of every man. The doctrine which blazes out to the world in the front of our great charter, is equality of birthright, identity of blood, the dignity of a like spiritual nature. Therefore, let no impediment be set in his way. Let no chain be upon his heel, no stain or caste upon his forehead. If there is genuine force in him, he shall encounter no hereditary obstacle. Though he spring from the loins of a beggar, he may climb to a seat greater than a throne. What a miserable farce, then, is an American "aristocracy"—an "upper ten thousand"—when it claims by those terms an actual separation from other conditions of men. If a man can amuse himself with the conceit that a few hundred thousand dollars, a fine establishment, costly wines and horses, really make him a greater personality in the universe than the poor brother by his side, so that the latter has no business to "come between the wind and his gentility," why—it may do no great harm as long as he keeps his conceit to himself. Or, if a class of people choose to play nobility, or affect a titled distinction, it's as lawful as any other comedy. Though we may remind them that their only source of nobility is in the very things they affect to despise. Their good, honest, fathers and grandfathers, industrious and steady, had more nobility in one muscle of their sweaty toil, than runs through all their arteries. I can respect the aristocracy of family—the consciousness of blood that has flown through historic veins, and throbbed under blazoned shields on fields of renown I can respect the aristocracy of talent, rising above all conditions in its splendor and its power I can respect the aristocracy of enterprise, that bursts all obstacles and itself earns and holds with a modest self assertion. But of all aristocracy, the aristocracy of mere vulgar, flaring wealth, and nothing else, is the emptiest and the silliest. —Rev. E. H. Chapin

A RECRUIT FROM THE GRAVE —The war has produced many strange stories, but few more singular than the following one, related by Colonel Ellis, late of the 1st Missouri Cavalry, in a St Louis paper:

A few days after a fiercely contested battle, a party of soldiers belonging to the 1st Missouri took a jaunt over the battle-field, and came up to a spot where the rebel dead were buried In one place the hair of a man's head was seen sticking out of the ground like a tuft of grass, and near by a hand was seen protruding upwards, which evidently belonged to the corpse that owned the hair. One of the cavalrymen remarked to his companions, in a spirit of thoughtless levity, "See, there's a dead rebel reaching out for something—let's see what he wants" In the same spirit of wanton mischief, almost recklessness, the cavalry men took hold of the man's hand, and hauled the body out of the grave, the loose dirt falling back into the shallow hole Soon after the man began to stir and show signs of life, to the utter astonishment and horror of the resurrectionists The man was taken by his rescuers to their tent, and was rubbed down washed off, and in a few days became as "good as new" He said that in the battle he was stunned by the passage of a shell, which knocked him senseless He was picked up among the dead and buried like the rest Not a scratch was found on his body He said that he had joined the rebel army, and fought the Federals long and well, but as this was his second appearance on earth, he would now join the Federals and fight for them He accordingly enlisted in the 1st Missouri, did a good deal of tough march hard fighting, and last September was nt of the service and paid off at Benton

The St Louis Republican says: "We learn that Captain Price a son of General Sterling Price has returned to Missouri for the purpose of escorting the remaining members of the family to Mexico They will go to Cordova, the seat of the Southern colony, which is being formed there under the auspices of M F Maury, J Shelby, and others General Price is represented to be satisfied with the prospects of the colony, and has decided to take up his residence permanently there"

LUDICROUS SCENE IN CHURCH —The following good joke occurred, not long since, in one of the churches in this county An aged clergyman, speaking of the solemnity attached to the ministerial office said that during the whole term of forty or fifty years that he had officiated therein, his gravity had never been but once disturbed in the pulpit On that occasion he noticed a man directly in front of him leaning over the railing in the gallery with something in his hand, which he afterwards discovered to be a huge chew of tobacco just taken from his mouth. Directly below sat a man fast asleep, with his head back and his mouth wide open. The man in the gallery was intently engaged in raising and lowering his hand, taking an exact observation, till, at last having got it right, he let fall the quid and it went plump into the mouth of the sleeper below! The whole scene was so indescribably ludicrous, that for the first and last time in the pulpit, an involuntary smile forced itself upon the countenance of the preacher —Albany Times

GLORYING IN THEIR SHAME.—A writer in the Atlanta Intelligencer, in a tirade against Northern newspapers, says:

But let those miserable pimps, who pander to such a spirit, know that the South has a history above the reach of their malice The civilized world witnessed the struggle in which we were engaged. There is Manassas, and Fredericksburg, and Chancellorville, the Seven Pines, the seven days fight around Richmond, Perryville, Murfreesboro', Chickamauga, and other battle-fields of the late revolution—"and there they will remain forever." No amount of manufactured lies or perverted facts can tear these glorious words from the Confederate flag or blot them from the "book of time" There is Lee, Jackson, Johnson and Beauregard, and Longstreet, Forrest, Stewart and Morgan, and other "immortal names that were not born to die," and in his heart of hearts, the Southerner will cherish them, and his cheek glow with pride at their mention.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL.

WEEKLY REVIEW

PORTLAND March 9, 1866

The weather during the past week has been somewhat bad but business is generally active There is no apparent alteration in the money market Legal tender notes are held at 74c

It is a matter worthy of examination whether a Sugar Refinery cannot be started in this State to successfully compete with other sections for the trade, in good qualities of sugar Recent statistics of the California market show an increase of about 500 bbls per month in 1865, as compared with 1864 in the demand for white refined sugars of the local refineries in that State Our trade with the Sandwich Islands the past year has greatly confirmed the favor heretofore regarded by consumers concerning the Hawaiian sugars With the facilities we have had some 15 000 kegs of a merchantable order, have been received here Direct from Honolulu, besides about 500 barrels of molasses, and a large quantity of other articles

With a refinery here all grades of sugar could be purchased for this market, otherwise it is a hard matter, with the present requirements of the Islands, to purchase a cargo suitable for this trade

It is quite certain that the Hawaiian planters can eventually compete successfully with all other producers, either in the Atlantic or Pacific The low value of land in the Islands the luxuriant growth of the cane the low rate of labor, and the advantage which the short voyage to this coast gives in respect to drainage, freight, insurance, and interest, secures to the Hawaiian planter a decided advantage over other competitors for the trade of the Pacific coast. The estimated crop for 1866 is placed at 24 000 000 pounds

With 6,000 square miles, and a population at present of 10 9?0 people, but 2716 of whom are foreigners, we learn that the yield of 1866, in sugars alone was put at 11 000 tons all of which, with the exception of some 1,000 or 2 000 tons will be for export chiefly to California and Oregon The field for future operations is promising as no more than one eighth of the land adapted to agriculture is used It is stated that 100,000 acres adapted to cane culture will produce 200,000,000 pounds annually

The benefits arising from the Islands trade is mutual During the past year $102 000 was paid to this place for containers They have heretofore imported their kegs from the State of Massachusetts paying round figures for them Within the year just closed a factory was established in this city for the manufacture of containers This being the best place on the coast where that suitable for kegs can be procured It is safe to predict that in future we shall be able to supply all that is desired

Messrs Irne & Rogers are now making at the steam factory in this city at the rate of 350 daily, and the factory at St Helens is doing a much larger business Specimens of the Moss chests contained from a factory that last year shipped 150 000 to the Islands, are to be seen at the factory in this city, and shows a very inferior article to those produced here

The rates of freight from Honolulu to San Francisco are at present $8 per ton Cargoes can be laid down here direct from the Islands at a much less figure than via San Francisco, and our State produce a ready market at the Islands

That the most natural route to the new gold fields of Montana lies by the way of the Columbia river cannot longer be doubted and we think the people of California if they will but examine the matter will find satisfactory evidence that the best route to Salt Lake from California at this time is in the same direction With the present facilities freight can be laid down at Salt Lake at about 14c per lb coin The present price from St Louis is 20@21c in legal tender notes, making a difference in favor of this route of 1½@1¾ per lb The steamboat now building at Boise for the Snake river will at once bind travel, making the distance from Wallula or Umatilla less than 350 miles Already we hear of 100 000 lbs of freight contracted to be delivered as far up Snake river as the boat can run which it is supposed will be about 20 miles below Salmon Falls Ogden and Brigham City will be the first Mormon towns reached from the Snake river, both of which are important places, from 60 to 75 miles from Salt Lake City

A prominent retail dealer remarked to us that the retail business in Portland is decidedly inactive.

The reason is apparent Retail stores have increased much faster than the population of the city would justify Concentration makes dull times and the retail business is too much concentrated at this point. Being divided among so many causes all to complain

Another cause, which we have heretofore alluded to, and which the city ought to take cognizance of, as it acts against the interest of this class of our citizens is the privilege enjoyed by the farming community of coming to the city and peddling from house to house the products of the farm This seems like a great injustice, inasmuch as the retailer pays his portion of the city taxes, assessments, licenses, etc., while the farmer pays nothing towards maintaining the municipal government There is needed, for the mutual protection of both producer and consumer, a just and equitable market law, such as is in force in Eastern cities

Pure fresh butter is not to be had. The prices remain firm There is very little brine on hand Eggs are plentiful and prices tend downward. Poultry is scarce and high Game is in limited supply Potatoes are selling lower, and are dull sale at prices noted, Other vegetables are scarce, and it is thought supplies will have to be procured from California hence prices may be higher until the new crop is on the market

Domestic Produce Market.

PORTLAND, March 9, 1866

Retail and jobbing in the produce business remains inactive The opening of navigation has stimulated shipments of flour, bacon, lard, butter and eggs for consumption in river towns, but beyond that nothing of moment is transpiring with the mining regions, which is probably owing to the bad state of the roads, incident to the breaking up of winter

The stock of domestic produce, except in the article of butter is very large and if not held at too high limits or in the hands of speculators business must be more active and sales readily made

Considerable speculation in lard and bacon is apparent, and it is generally supposed these articles will rule high during the season Jobbers are looking for an active trade as soon as the season is far enough advanced to admit of easy access to the mining regions

CONSUMPTION, COUGHS, COLDS, Asthma, Croup,

Diseases of the Throat, Bronchitis, Pains and Oppression of the Chest and Lungs, Difficult Breathing and all the Diseases of the Pulmonary Organs.

ITS ACTION IS EXPECTORANT ALTERATIVE, SUDORIFIC SEDATIVE, DIAPHORETIC AND DIURETIC, which renders it one of the most valuable remedies known for curing diseases of the lungs It excites expectoration, and causes the lungs to throw off the phlegm or mucus; CHANGES THE SECRETIONS AND PURIFIES THE BLOOD; heals the irritated parts; gives strength to the digestive organs, brings the liver to its proper action, and imparts strength to the whole system Such is the immediate and satisfactory effect, that it is WARRANTED TO BREAK UP THE MOST DISTRESSING COUGH IN A FEW HOURS' TIME, if not of too long standing. IT IS WARRANTED to give entire satisfaction even in the MOST CONFIRMED CASES OF CONSUMPTION! IT IS WARRANTED NOT to produce costiveness (which is the case with most remedies) or affect the head, as it contains no Opium in any form IT IS WARRANTED TO BE PERFECTLY HARMLESS to the most delicate child, although it is an active and powerful remedy for restoring the system. NEW REMEDIES, NEW REMEDIES

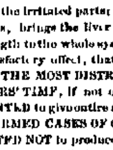
Dr. Gibbon's Dispensary,



617 KEARNEY STREET, NEAR COMMERCIAL, San Francisco. Established in 1854, for the treatment of Sexual and Seminal Diseases, such as Gonorrhea, Gleet, Stricture, Syphilis in all its forms, Seminal Weakness, Impotency, etc. Skin Diseases (of years standing) and Ulcerated Legs successfully treated.

Horrible Diseases.

How many thousands of persons, both male and female, are there who are suffering out a miserable existence from the effects of secret indulgence, or from virus absorbed into the system! Look at their pallid, emaciated and disfigured faces and their broken-down constitutions, disqualifying them for the happiness of marriage or the enjoyment of life. In this horrid situation thousands suffer until death closes the scene. Let parents, guardians, friends, attend to those who are suffering with any of these horrible life-destroying maladies, see that they are cured for and cured before it be too late. Send them immediately to Doctor Gibbon, a physician who has made private disease his especial study for years, and who is certain to cure the most inveterate cases without mercury or any injurious drugs. It is important to those who are afflicted, or to those who are interested in the welfare of their friends, to be careful of the many pretended doctors who infest all cities, publishing their skill in curing all diseases in a few days, imposing upon the public by using the names of eminent physicians from Europe and other places Be therefore careful and make strict inquiry, or you may fall into the hands of those charlatans

Seminal Weakness.

Seminal Emissions, the consequence of self-abuse This solitary vice, or depraved sexual indulgence, is practiced by the youth of both sexes to an almost unlimited extent, producing, with unerring certainty, the following train of morbid symptoms, unless combatted by scientific medical measures, viz: Sallow countenance, dark spots under the eyes, pain in the head, ringing in the ears, noise like the rustling of leaves and rattling of chariots, uneasiness about the loins, weakness of the limbs, confused vision, blunted intellect, loss of confidence, diffidence in approaching strangers, a dislike to form new acquaintances, a disposition to shun society, loss of memory, hectic flushes; pimples and various eruptions about the face, furred tongue, fetid breath, coughs, consumption, night sweats, monomania and frequent insanity. If relief be not obtained, should apply immediately, either in person or by letter, and have a cure effected by his new and scientific mode of treating this disease, which never fails of effecting a quick and radical cure. Dr. G. will give One Hundred Dollars to any person who will prove satisfactorily to him that he was cured of this complaint by either of the San Francisco quacks.

DOCTOR GIBBON is responsible, and will give to each patient a written instrument, binding himself to effect a radical and permanent cure, or no charge.

Persons at a distance may be CURED AT HOME, by addressing a letter to Doctor Gibbon, stating case, symptoms, length of time the disease has continued, and have medicines promptly forwarded, free from damage and curiosity, to any part of the country, with full and plain directions for use, for Ten Dollars, sent in registered letter or through Wells, Fargo & Co.
